

Lean for Human Resource Professionals

In partnership with GSHRM, this one day course focuses on the Lean principles used by successful organizations across multiple industries. Lean for Human Resources is a fundamental change in how you, and the people in your organization, approach problems.

Participants will learn how lean methods may be applied to HR processes, participate in hands on interactive simulations, and develop an easy to use strategy to apply the tools in your organization. When rigorously applied, Lean for Human Resources can have positive impacts on productivity, cost, quality and delivery of services. This course is appropriate for an individual or entire HR department from a variety of industries including: manufacturing, business services, government, and healthcare.
